GETTING TO KNOW GLENROWAN

Glenrowan may be most famous for its association with Ned Kelly, but bushrangers aside, the town is also renowned for its bold and complex wines – rather like the legend of Mr Kelly himself.

Glenrowan is one of Victoria's most historic wine regions with 13 growers and seven cellar doors calling this tiny pocket of the north-eastern Victoria high country home. Production dates back to 1870, with the famous Bailey family. Their fortified wines flourished in the rich red granite soils, ensuring the wines of Glenrowan made their name both domestically and as highly sought-after for export.

The tiny region was devastated by phylloxera at the turn of the 20th Century. Although small, the residents of Glenrowan were mighty and resilient, re-planting with disease-resistant rootstock. As a result of their hard work, today some of Australia's greatest dessert style wines hail from Glenrowan – notably their powerful Muscats and Tokays. Glenrowan Shiraz also makes a worthy name thanks to the winemaking and viticulture talent making the most of the fruit on its fertile ranges.

If you're seeking out powerful red wines and globally acclaimed fortifieds, then look no further than Glenrowan – a tiny region that packs a mighty punch when it comes to outstanding wines.
